INDIANS TRIM R.-M.

William and Mary Quint Doubles Yellow Jacket Score.

For the past three years the quint of Randolph-Macon College won the association championship without dropping a championship game during that period. It was a great machine, but it had to be dismantled, leaving only Zimmerman, center. Around this star Coach Goff constructed a team.

The course of events brought William and Mary and Randolph-Macon together again in the gym here Saturday last. From the start it was apparent that the tables would be turned, as the final score, 53-26, proved.

William and Mary, presenting the most solid array it has had in basketball in many years, doubled the score on the Yellow Jackets by an exhibition of teamwork that was almost unbeatable. The small gym prevented passing on a large scale, but the native ability of the Indians found expression in machine play and accurate goal shooting.

Result Not Long in Doubt.

It did not require five minutes play to demonstrate the superiority of our team. Coach Driver's charges had the benefit of playing on their home court and took advantage of this circumstance. Captain Pierce made the first score by tossing a goal from the court, and Cooke followed this with a basket from foul line. From then on the local five caged the ball whenever opportunity offered, and the first period ended with William and Mary exercising a dower right over the large end of a 30-15 count. Pierce, playing a great floor game, rung up six baskets in the first half. Alva Cooke, Pierce's running mate, secured five goals from court.

Jones Occupies Spotlight.

Bake Jones, the impenetrable, the imperturbable, loitered through the first half, content with holding his man scoreless. During the rest period, however, he apparently absorbed a shot of one and one-half per cent of aqua pura, for he proved a wild man in the scoring line throughout the second semester. He led the Indians in attack, scoring five field goals, three of which bordered on the sensational. Yes, sir, little Bake is nothing is not versatile!

Pierce got three goals more, making his collection nine baskets. Harwood, playing a dandy floor game, contributed six points. Toward the close of the encounter, an entire new team, save Captain Pierce, was substituted. Hicks tossed a pretty goal in his lone chance to register a tally.

To say the Indians played with precision and smoothness is "damning them with faint praise." The students drank deep of the victory, the first over Randolph-Macon in four years.

Zimmerman the Jacket Star

Zimmerman knew he would have to bear the brunt of Randolph-Macon's offensive, and right gallantly did he plunge into the battle. He accounted for ten points through field goals, and

Football Schedule Excellent

Many New and Interesting Games on Indians' Card for 1921.

Athletic authorities of the college are pointing with pride to the football schedule for next year. Not in many a long year has one been made which is its peer. A greater diversity of opponents, and a more favorable location for games marks the arrangement for next season. Not only have we succeeded in securing a coach of All-American reputation in "Bill" Fincher of Georgia Tech, but we have arranged a schedule that should work to his advantage.

New games on the schedule are Trinity, George Washington, Wake Forest, and Catholic University. William and Mary played Trinity in baseball on Cary Field last season, winning the fracas 2-1. It was one of the prettiest games of the season and we look forward with pleasure to the resumption of relations in other branches of sport. George Washington took a close game of basketball from William and Mary in Washington a short time ago, while Catholic University is dickering for a date on Cary Field in baseball next March. Of the additions to our list of opponents, Wake Forest is the only unknown quantity. The Tarheels have a fine reputation as sportsmen and we welcome their presence on our card.

All efforts of the latter half of the season will be pointed to a victory over Richmond University on Thanksgiving Day. We are expecting to make Boulevard Field a Spider graveyard next Turkey Day. V. P. I., Randolph-Macon, and Union Seminary are old-time opponents whom we are glad to see recurring on the schedule.

Keen observers will note that only two games have been scheduled at home, only two; those with Tech and Trinity are beyond the reach of any who really want to see the team play. Another favorable feature of the 1921 card is that no misplaced game, such as the one with N. C. State has been arranged. William and Mary stands an even chance of copping every game on her schedule with the possible exception of the opener with Tech. Should Fincher's coaching come up to expectations we may show our heels to the Gobblers.

Schedule.

- Oct. 1—Virginia Tech at Blacksburg.
- Oct. 8—Trinity College at Durham, N. C.
- Oct. 15—George Washington University at Norfolk.

CONCERT NEXT WEEK

Treat in Store for Students Next Wednesday.

Before another issue of THE FLAT HAT appears, the students of William and Mary will have had the opportunity to hear in concert Frances West Reinhardt and Joseph Whittemore. These artists come to us with the highest recommendations; and they ought to please both those who love classical music and those who prefer a lighter type of song. Their program here includes arias, duets from the operas, and songs, which, although not "rag," everybody can enjoy. For encores they always keep in store a fine selection of humorous numbers.

Mr. Whittemore Highly Praised.

Mr. Whittemore has a clear, ringing tenor especially suited for rendering such favorites as "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby," "Passing By," and "In Your Eyes." On various occasions when he has appeared in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and Richmond as the soloist with the Metropolitan Orchestra, and as the only singer in many private recitals, he has invariably received most flattering press notices. In Richmond, Douglas Gordon said of Whittemore's singing of Ronald's "Down in the Forest," that not since the days of Bonci had a tenor sung the last pianissimo high A natural any better.

Miss Reinhardt Favorably Criticized.

Within the past year Frances West Reinhardt has sung in Richmond and in Petersburg. That she made a favorable impression in both places is indicated by the favorable criticisms which she received. The Index-Appeal reports her as having "won her audience completely by her lovely voice"; and the Progress, as possessing "not only a rich, dramatic soprano, but a very charming personality. Her tones are clear, rich and beautiful." In Richmond, where she sang with Clarence Whitehall and the Metropolitan House Orchestra, the News-Leader said of her: "Among the artists of the evening, Frances West Reinhardt shone a real star." From New York the Musical Courier writes of her singing in Mendelssohn's "Elijah" with Whitehall, Morgan Kingston, Margaret Keyles, and Inez Barbour: "Another artist of the evening was the young and beautiful soprano, Frances West Reinhardt, who sang in the trio and as soloist in the role of 'Youth.' Her singing was some of the most exquisite heard throughout the evening." After her appearance in concert on a previous occasion, the New York Musical America praised her for having sung "charmingly and with great beauty of voice and interpretation."

The price of admission to the concert is one dollar. To hear them in Richmond or in the North would cost over twice this amount. Because of their desire to awaken among the students of William and Mary a love for music, they have agreed to come to Williamsburg upon exceedingly liberal terms. It is expected, therefore, that the students will show their appreciation by attending in large numbers.

QUINT LOSES AND WINS

Fast Park View Team Takes Portsmouth Game, While Indians Down Shipyard in Newport News.

Journeying to Portsmouth last Tuesday night the team encountered the strong Park View quint of that city. Inasmuch as that team had already defeated the Medical College court aggregation, opposition of the stiffest kind was expected. And we found it!

Playing as they were on a strange court, Captain Pierce's cohorts had trouble in getting started and the Park View quint had taken a comfortable lead. Once used to the gym our boys uncorked a passing game that opened the eyes of the spectators. They passed here, there, everywhere around their opponents in a manner which the Virginian-Pilot called "the best exhibition of team-work seen on the local court in many a day."

But alas, passing doesn't make the score and our boys were way off in their shooting on that particular evening. In the matter of field goals the two teams were about evenly matched, but Day caged fouls for Park View with annoying consistency. In fact his eleven fouls proved the margin of victory.

In summary our boys put up a splendid exhibition of basketball and greatly enhanced William and Mary's reputation for clean play. The Virginian-Pilot noted that the team played according to the tradition of William and Mary—clean, sportsmanship, and good conduct on the floor.

The team was so nearly perfect that an outstanding figure can hardly be chosen. Capt. Pierce probably put up the best game for William and Mary. Day was the backbone of the Park View offense. The lineup:

Smarting under the knowledge of a defeat at the hands of Park View, the quint invaded Newport News with the determination to annex at least one of the two contests.

Accustomed to a large floor from the experience of the previous night, they lost no time in putting the game on ice. Jones received the opposing center's tip-off, snapped the ball to Pierce, who was waiting under the basket, and the scorer registered two points for William and Mary. While the team played a hard, consistent game, they were decidedly off color on locating the basket. Time and again perfect teamwork maneuvered the ball beneath the basket only to result in missing an easy shot. As it happened, the baskets were not badly needed, but it would be agonizing to see them go to waste in a close game.

The Shipyard team depended on the shooting of Ruby, which amounted to little under the close guarding of Jones and Young. "Flicky" Harwood played a steady game, often getting the jump on his big opponent, and contributing two baskets to our total. The lineup:

COUNSELMAN WRITES FOR GUIDE

To Write Up High School Football in Virginia for Spaulding's "Guide."

At the request of officials of the Association of High Schools of Virginia, Prof. J. S. Counselman, of this College, will write the history of high school football in Virginia for the Spaulding Official Guide.

High school football was of special interest during the past season due to the fact that clear titles were won in both Eastern and Western divisions of the State. Roanoke won out in the Western branch, while Newport News was the only survivor in the Eastern division. In a post-season game Newport News defeated Roanoke, 14-7.

The showing of Newport News was particularly interesting, as several of the best players of that team are expected to be trying for places on Cary Field next year.

DRIVER RENEWS CONTRACT

To Remain at William and Mary as Graduate Manager and Supervisor of Athletics.

Students and alumni greet with pleasure Coach "Jimmy" Driver's decision to remain at William and Mary. While he has given up active coaching, which work will be handled by assistants, Coach Driver will find ample work as head of the physical education department, which, as a result of the passage of the West bill, will assume unusual proportions next year.

Coach Driver's work will also include the scheduling of games and controlling the expenditure of funds. His work in this capacity is in harmony with the expanding athletic policy of the college. Heretofore, schedules have been arranged by student managers who were severely handicapped by inexperience. At last we have come to the realization that, to secure a successful schedule, an old hand must have charge of arranging the games.

Coach Driver commands a position of respect on the campus of William and Mary that seldom falls to the lot of any athletic director. As an alumnus he is interested in the development of our athletic policy to a much greater extent than an outsider could be, and is in all ways an asset which we should be extremely sorry to lose.

FINCHER TO COACH

FOOTBALL ELEVEN

Georgie Tech Star to Guide the Gridiron Destinies of 1921 Team.

A great step toward putting William and Mary on the football map of the State was made when "Bill" Fincher, of Georgia Tech was signed to coach next year's football team. Fincher was a star tackle on the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech this last fall, and has a country-wide reputation as one of the best in the game. Walter Camp picked him as an end on his mythical All-American aggregation, with the statement that he was one of the most versatile players in the field last fall.

While his experience in the coaching line has been limited, it is expected that Fincher's knowledge of the game will go far toward making him the most successful football mentor ever seen at William and Mary. He will arrive in Williamsburg on September 12, and will remain until after Thanksgiving. Expectations are that, with the aid of Profs. Gooch and Counselman, Fincher's choice of moleskin warriors to represent the Orange and Black in 1921 will give William and Mary her most successful football season.

Catholic University is negotiating with William and Mary for a baseball game here in March.

Eppa Rixey, elongated big league southpaw, arrives here next week to assume charge of the battery candidates. His coaching should prove a big help to the Indians.

University of Richmond five, which has made a creditable showing, plays the Indians quint tonight. The annual visit of the Spiders is a big event in local athletic circles.

Cary Field and the baseball diamond next week will resound with the crash of horsehide and ash. It is the plan of the coach to have three or four teams train throughout the season. This should uncover material galore.

Bill Fincher, of Georgia Tech fame, is the first All-American gridiron star to coach William and Mary. He reports September 12.

Dave Robertson, outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, has been invited to practice with the William and Mary squad. He is now at his home in Norfolk.

Flicky Harwood, new basketball manager, although he has almond eyes, is not a Chinaman around the ladies.

Pete Hundley, of the quint, has qualified in the chicken finals.

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot said, in part, concerning the Indians' game with Park View: "The entire team upheld the William and Mary tradition for clean and sportsmanlike playing and conduct on the floor."

The contents for the number include Judge Alton B. Parker's address as chancellor of the Sulgrave Institution, delivered at the college last October 6; letters of Beilby Porteus, and John Blair relative to the Brafferton Estate in England, owned by the college; a tentative list of students who attended the college from 1753 to 1770; several letters of John Preston, the brother of Frances Preston, and Governor Preston of Virginia; the petition of the trustees of the Alexandria Academy in 1786; an interesting petition by Alexandria merchants relative to taxation in 1780; a petition of American Loyalists to the Lord George Germaine in 1778; and a letter of instructions from Thomas Povey, dated 1660, in behalf of the Royal Society, relative to the collection of information concerning the natural products of Virginia.

The second series of the Quarterly is edited by the President, Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, and the Librarian, E. G. Swem. It is published by the college.

It will be of interest to any who are thinking of applying for a Rhodes scholarship to Oxford University, to know that the yearly allowance has been advanced from three hundred to three hundred and fifty pounds, or about $1,750. This advance is not a permanent one, but is being made merely to cover the increased cost of living at the present time.

This announcement came recently to Prof. R. K. Gooch, the secretary of the committee on selecting candidates from Virginia. All those who may be interested in this matter are invited to see Mr. Gooch for further details.

A MATTER OF SPIRIT

Last Saturday the first interesting game of the local season was held in the gymnasium, and the results were certainly up to the highest expectations. Certainly every soul in that crowded space was momentarily centered on one goal—a victory for the Orange and Black. But suppose we turned a good percentage of that latent excitement into cheering, wouldn't the team have derived more benefit from it? There is only one way for us to let the five men who are putting forth their utmost effort on the floor to know we are behind them—and that is by keeping up a continual hubbub from beginning to end. Medical men tell us that occasional relaxation is of great benefit physically—so let's unbend, forget for a moment our position of utmost dignity, and get a little pep behind the team!

Not that there wasn't any rooting done in the Randolph-Macon fracas, but that we didn't do all we might have done. The five didn't need support particularly last Saturday, but tonight we have with us Richmond University. If there is one thing that fills the heart of a William and Mary man with joy it is the idea of trouncing the Spiders in any branch of sport. The team is going after this game with all they've got—let's help 'em out! In a closely contested battle such as we are expecting tonight an extra ounce of energy may mean an extra basket—and that basket may mark the margin between defeat and victory. A wild chorus of friendly voices puts fight into any team. We can turn our team into a quintet of wildcats by proper application tonight.

The crowded condition of the gymnasium renders concerted rooting well-nigh impossible, but that doesn't prevent each one of us from trying to out-yell the other fellow. If you can't play basketball, you can at least do your part to help trim the Spiders by coming out of the gym with a hoarse throat tonight. Let's get Richmond!

A FAREWELL

It is with the deepest regret that we mention in these columns the loss of some of the most valuable members of our student body—regret because we will greatly miss them on the campus, and yet with pleasure in their attaining their first step in the ladder of life.

The names of those of our seniors who are leaving us at the end of the first term are:

A. D. Joyner, B. A., Business Manager of the Literary Magazine, Senior Class poet, and a member of the student council. "Red" has distinguished himself on the athletic field since he has been here, as a member of the football and baseball teams, and four times captain of the track team. Here's luck to a good friend and true.

W. H. Pride, B. S., has accepted a position teaching in Newport News. For the past term he has been a laboratory instructor in the Chemistry department.

F. S. Calkins, B. A. While he has been at William and Mary only two years, has made many friends on the campus, who wish him well in the business world.

R. H. Owen, B. A., Sigma Phi Epsilon, member of the football team, manager of basketball, and president of the Philomathean Literary Society. "Pinkie" expects to spend the remainder of the present session teaching near his home.

Blanche Kennedy, B. S., holds the peculiar honor of being the first woman to receive a Bachelor's degree from William and Mary. Blanche is a member of the Upsilon Delta Beta Society, and is particularly popular on the campus. She has accepted a position teaching in her home town the rest of this year.

I. D. Akers, B. S., Phi Tau Beta, has come to the end of a four years' hard struggle towards the goal of all undergraduates. He expects to teach in his home town for the rest of the year.

John B. Bentley, while not a member of the Senior Class, deserves mention as she departs from our midst. John is now at the Episcopal Seminary at Alexandria, from which place he will depart in June to do missionary work in Alaska. Bentley was president of the Sophomore Class, president of the Philomathean Literary Society, president of the Student Council, and a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity and the Flat Hat Club.

"No, sweetest one."

"And there isn't any draft on your back?"

Health Officer of Newport
News.

Alma Mater ever greets with pride the news of distinction that has come to one of her sons, so that it was with the utmost satisfaction that we learned recently of the appointment of Dr. C. B. Ransome as Health Officer of Newport News. Dr. Ransome secured his B. A. from William and Mary and from here went to the Medical College of Virginia, from which institution he graduated with honors. He was an interne in the Virginia Hospital for eleven months and thus came into contact with cases which should make him an expert in the problems of city sanitation.

The Daily Press says:

"The appointment of Dr. Ransome marks a forward step in the government of this city in that he is the first full-time health officer, and the appointment is probably the first move in the complete reorganization of the health department, which has been one of the biggest tasks of the city manager since the new government became effective."

Dr. Ransome carries with him our best wishes as he sets out in his new undertaking, and we sincerely hope that his deeds will be of such a nature that he can be added to her already swollen list of illustrious sons.

chucked six baskets in nine tries from the foul line. His batting averages was pretty high, and the spectators cheered him lustily. He was hurt and forced to retire near the close of the contest.

A dance followed the game, and the visiting players and Coach Goff were guests. The splendid spirit and sportsmanship of Randolph-Macon teams commends itself to all athletic rivals. The lineup:

LIBRARY RECEIVES GIFT

Historic Preservation Society Presents Complete Set of Its Reports.

The American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society of New York City, maintainers of interest in historical matters in the United States, has presented to the Library of the College of William and Mary a handsome set of its reports, which gives full information about the tablets, memorials, and buildings erected, and the parks purchased through the instrumentality of the society. This Society has done much in the encouragement of historical pageants, and its reports are useful for information upon that subject.

The Library has also received a valuable collection of books relating to Virginia and Southern history, formerly the property of Col. B. E. Ewell, from Mrs. Elizabeth Scott Crawford, Colonel Ewell's granddaughter. The Association of Life Insurance Presidents, New York City, has just presented a valuable collection of 200 publications on modern finance, public health and insurance.
